

New Provincial Grants Should Give McGill Over $2 Million

MP Chairs Tonight For Parliament

The city-wide University Model Parliament will open tonight at 7:15 in the City Hall. Representatives from McGill, Sir George Williams, the University of Montreal, Loyola College and MacDonald College will participate.

This is the first time an island-wide parliament has been attempted by the participating universities, although each has held model parliaments on their campus.

The Conservatives, who will form the Government, are putting forward a bill calling for common citizenship for all Commonwealth citizens. The motion will be open to discussion in accordance with standard parliamentary procedure and private members' bills will also be entertained.

The session's proceedings will be governed by Beauchesne's "Rules for Meetings in Canada".

BREAKDOWN

Of the 99 seats in the Parliament, the Tories will be the largest minority with 40 seats. The Liberals will have 33, the CCF will have 19, McGill's Neo-Radicals 5, with one Independent from McGill and one from MacDonald. The allotment of seats is based on the results of recent elections held on the various campuses.

The Hon. Frank McGee, Conservative M.P. from York-Scarborough, will act as speaker of the House. During the present session of the federal parliament, McGee was responsible for tabling a motion on the abolishment of capital punishment.

I Pronounce Thee Mouse And Spouse

One of Tevya's daughters in the Hillel production of "Tevya and his Daughters" has finally hooked her man. Here Hodel (Teena Garelick) is being married to Fefel (David Gurberg) by the rabbi played by Irving Zuckerman. The play is being staged at the Van Horne Auditorium on January 28 and 30 at 8:30 pm. Tickets are still available at Hillel House and in the Arts Building for $1.50

McGill University will be receiving greatly increased provincial grants next year — based on $1.75 per capita of Quebec's population and proportioned between the province's six institutions of higher learning on an enrollment basis. This should amount to almost two and a half million dollars.

Details of the new provincial grants scheme were distributed in the Legislative Assembly late yesterday afternoon by the Union Nationale government. Premier Antonio Barrette told the Assembly that under the terms of his plan, Quebec universities would receive the money, starting in the 1960-61 fiscal year, regardless of whether or not some settlement is reached with Diefenbaker over federal grants.

POWELL COMMENTS

Commenting on the new plan, McGill's Chancellor Powell said last night,

"Although I haven't had an opportunity to study Quebec's plan for the support of education, I am delighted with today's press reports of the government's intention to make such generous grants to universities. They certainly need financial help but I am sure that the spirit responsible for such aid will also be valued highly by students and their teachers."

Called "an act respecting financial assistance to the universities of the province," the measure was introduced in the Lower House before Christmas by the late Premier Paul Sauvé. But texts were not available at that time.

When Sauvé brought down the measure, he said the government's "regular and permanent" aid to universities would be paid on the basis of $1.50 for every man, woman and child of the province to be distributed according to the number of students enrolled in each institution.

BARRETTE'S LETTER

Premier Barrette last week in his letter to Prime Minister Diefenbaker pointed out that the boosted provincial grants will be paid "regardless of the outcome of the negotiations between the federal government and the Quebec provincial government."

Financial assistance granted Quebec universities under the new bill is to be paid out of the province's education fund.

The Quebec education fund is built up from half the proceeds of the provincial sales tax, of income derived from a tax on hydraulic resources and other miscellaneous sources.

ADVANCE PAYMENTS

Under the new legislation, the Quebec cabinet may authorize the finance minister to make advance payments each year not to exceed 75 per cent of the estimated apportionment.

A clause of the bill states that the universities may agree among themselves:

1. To fix standards of university attendance for the purpose of apportionment of the grants,

2. To determine the proof of such attendance to be supplied to the minister of finance.

If the universities make such agreements unanimously, they will have force of law. Otherwise, the Lieutenant Governor in Council "may make such definition of university attendance and prescribe such proof as he shall deem fair and equitable."

60 Charities Drive Ends Canvassing

The McGill Combined Charities Campaign officially closes today. Canvassers who have not already collected contributions from their list of students are urged to make a last attempt today.

Arthur Dalfen, treasurer of the Campaign, reports that returns which have been counted to date are sufficiently close to original expectations. From the $450 tallied up to yesterday he noted that students have given in excess of $1 on the average during the last few days. Dalfen said that this is definitely better than in past campaigns when an average of only 50 cents per student was recorded.

According to all indications, this year's campaign should exceed the total of $3,000 collected last year. This evidence supports the feelings of the campaign executive which supported the idea of straight salesmanship without any gimmicks.

As soon as returns are collected half the funds will be distributed to the Federation of Catholic Charities, the Combined Jewish Appeal, and the Red Feather Campaign. The remaining 50% will be given to the World University Service of Canada.

All group captains are requested to collect the money from their canvassers as soon as possible and to bring in the returns to the Campaign Headquarters. The office is located on the third floor of the Union in the Salon and will be open every day this week from 12-2 pm.

Board Allocates Bookstore Profits Strictly For Union

by MICHAEL FEINER

McGill's Board of Governors recently decided to allocate all profits from the Book Store to the SEC for the express purpose of managing the Students' Union.

This will not make any more funds available to the Union but it will put more ready cash at the disposal of those in charge of maintenance and thus make their task much easier.

Prior to this announcement the Board of Managers was forced to apply to the Governors for every individual sum of money they required. Under the new system administration will be extremely simplified.

ORIGIN

The idea was originated last year by Roy Heenan, who was then president of the Students' Society. It was passed by the SEC in May but no action was taken by the Board of Governors at that time, pending clarification of the relationship of the Women's Union to the Students' Society.

Speaking to the Daily last night, Heenan said "The plan was devised in order to give the present Union an assured source of revenue for the maintenance and improvement with a view to providing some funds towards the running of the new student centre, the financing of which will be a problem."

COMMITTEE INSTITUTED

In order to rectify the old situation a committee was set up under Dean Thompson, Vice-Principal of the University, to recommend improvements. The committee suggested that all the money be given to Students' Society, subject again to approval by the Board of Governors.

Actually, this had been done in practice before the recommendation was approved, as the presence of the president of the Women's Union on the SEP was felt to be sufficient to protect their rights.

This later measure will give the SEC even more control of finances as they are allowed to allocate it without prior approval of the Board of Governors — providing it is spent on the maintenance of the Union.

This is made very clear in the Governors' decision to permit the change. Some control will still be maintained since "...the funds will be placed in a special account and annual reports on expenditures from this account will be made to the Board of Governors."

ALLOCATION

Before this time money was spent on various projects such as one or two WUS scholarships a year for incoming students, a token donation to the New Union Fund, financial backing to Debating Union trips, and aid to MCWA.

These organizations will not lose this financial support. Under the present situation, they will be able to draw from the sources which had previously been used for the maintenance of the Union.

The amount of money which the Union will receive should be about $8,000 per annum. This figure should expand when the New Students' Centre is built since the Book Store will be housed in that building and it will have increased space and facilities.

Second Year Dinner

The Women's Union is holding its annual Second Year Dinner in the RVC cafeteria tonight at 6 pm. A short reception in the common room of RVC will be followed by a buffet style supper, accompanied by entertainment. Chairman of the dinner is Ruthie Voss, vice-chairman, Maureen Appel. Heading the various sub-committees are Janet Martin, Chryse Mica, Judy Russell, Linda Higgins, and Geri Sherman. All female second year students are urged to attend.

It's the Little Things...

A letter to the editor today points out that McGill students pay in the neighborhood of six hundred dollars tuition fees per year. For some, this amount is a few hundred dollars less than they actually pay. Others, such as Arts students, get by on five hundred and fifty dollars. But which ever way you choose to look at it, tuition fees at McGill are a considerable outlay, especially if one makes a comparison with institutions such as the University of Montreal whose fees are in the three to four hundred dollar bracket for most faculties.

True, McGill's reputation and quality supposedly is surpassed by no other Canadian university. Sometimes, however, we wonder if we are really getting our money's worth. It's not the quality of the lecturers or the semi-antique apparatus to be found in certain laboratories that irks us, but the little things. Little things like clearing slush and snow off the sidewalks or installing proper drainage.

The other day we saw one young lady slip and fall in a pool of slush and water just inside Roddick Gates, near the road which leads to the Physics Building. Fortunately there appeared to be no physical damage apart from a few bruises. Of course, the lady's coat and dress, not to mention notebooks, did become a soggy mess of mud and water.

It would have been very easy for a man equipped with a simple shovel to have cleared out the gutter and prevented such a mishap. Incidentally, the path taken by the young lady (leading from Roddick Gates to the Arts Building) is used by over 3,000 students daily. Indeed, the university is lucky that no one had been seriously injured as we believe that such a person could sue for damages on the grounds of negligence.

Between the Physics Building and the Pulp and Paper Research Institute there is another bothersome problem. The university has carefully installed a flight of stairs, enabling pedestrians who enter from University Street to ascend to campus level (by the way, we notice that the railing which recently fell down has not yet been replaced or repaired). Just before the stairs, pedestrians pass through a hollow under which the university steam pipes are laid. Apparently they are not well insulated, for in almost any winter weather the escaping heat melts the snow on the ground above, leaving pools of water and slush to challenge the passerby. These are generally of such magnitude that one has to walk through them, and not around.

The problem could be solved simply by installing drainage pipes in the form of "farm tile" leading off and under the parking lot. Instead, despite the fact that the path has been a recognized thoroughfare for as long as we can remember, pedestrians still must take the slushy way out.

We know the Buildings and Grounds Department is not referred to in the same breath as, say, the Faculty of Medicine. Nevertheless, that department could well consider that "little things mean a lot".

NOTICE OF SUB-AMENDMENT

STUDENTS' SOCIETY CONSTITUTION

The following sub-amendment will be introduced by the Editor-in-Chief on behalf of the Managing Board of the McGill Daily at the Students' Society meeting called for February 3, 1960, to consider an amended constitution of the Students' Society:

That in Article VI (7) there be added the following: "In the editorial columns of the McGill Daily, the managing board shall be free to express whatever opinion it holds save that no editorial shall treat of a religious or political question in a partisan way, or express or imply any but a neutral attitude in discussing any student election."

Political Polemics

Constitutional Setback

by Joel Arthur Robins

The policies of the Diefenbaker Government often seem inconsistent, if not irreconcilable.

Last month, for example, while the Prime Minister was strongly advocating human liberty and equality for the entire world, the External Affairs Minister announced at the United Nations that Canada would not condemn the racial prejudice extant in South Africa. This apparent cleavage between two policies of the same government is now succeeded by another.

Speaking on the motion for an Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne, Mr. Diefenbaker last week proclaimed his desire to "nationalize" the Canadian Constitution.

Quebec Attorney General Antoine Rivard read to the Legislative Assembly a letter from Justice Minister Fulton which revealed a federal Government plan to ask for amendment by the U.K. Parliament of a constitutional provision dealing with Superior Court Judges.

Section 99 of the British North America Act, which the Government proposes to amend, is not an entrenched provision.

It is a part of the Canadian Constitution which can be altered right here in this country.

For this reason the Government's announced intention to invoke the anachronistic aid of Westminster seems quite inconsistent with a desire to "nationalize" the Constitution.

Must Raise Fees For More Features

Sir:

Allow me to express my criticism of the way in which the Daily has found it convenient to solve its financial problems, namely by reducing the length of its issues and increasing advertising space.

I have spoken to a large number of students about this year's Daily and they agreed that it contains too many advertisements and too few features articles. In short, the Daily is not stimulating enough and does not pay justice to the controversial mind of the university student.

I can appreciate the financial headaches of a college newspaper editor, but surely, he has the responsibility of keeping up adequate standards in addition to simply publishing a certain number of issues per year. I would suggest that the necessary money be taken from students' fees. Ten dollars added to the already 600 or so each student pays every year cannot encounter serious objection. The returns will more than compensate for such a small sacrifice.

"Egos" Cast Chosen

The McGill Player's Club announces that casting has been completed for one of the three-plays to be presented in Experimentals '60.

Neil Madden, the director of "A Small Play for Large Egos", has chosen five students to play the roles in this script which deals with self-images.

The two leading roles will be played by Diana MacDougall and Stephanie Matthews. Diana MacDougall will play the part of an aging actress and Stephanie Matthews, who recently appeared with Louis Turenne in the Regency Player's production of 'Rope', will be seen as the young ingenue.

Others in the cast are Billy Fraiberg, Jocelyn Boyle, and Albert Kovitz, a member of the English Department's acting class.

Castings for "The Frogs" and "The People Are Not With Us" has not yet been completed. Further readings will be held today in the Club Room between the hours of 7 and 9 pm.

Directing "The Frogs" will be Dr. G. A. Vallillee, Assistant Professor of Classics at McGill. Ian Heron will direct "The People Are Not With Us".

Plumbers' "Dream Date" Ticket Is Drawn Today

Today is the last day for the Plumbers' Ball "Dream Date". The name of the winner will be drawn from a hat in the lobby of the New Engineering Building.

The Dream Date, chosen by lot, entitles the ticket-holder to an evening at no expense to himself. Besides a free ticket, the winner is given a corsage for his date, tuxedo, dinner passes for two couples at Ruby Foo's, transportation in a chauffeured limousine from Harold Cummings Ltd., and a souvenir of the evening for himself and his lady.

Tickets for this annual formal are still on sale in the lobby of the New Engineering Building between 12 and 2 pm.

The Ball will feature Eddie Alexander and Paul Beauregard to provide the music, and decorations with an Engineering motif to transform the gymnasium into a dance hall.

As usual, one of the attractions at the Ball will be exhibits from the engineers' student clubs, and the competition for the C. M. Anson trophy for the best exhibit.

Restoration Play To Be Produced

Casting will take place this week for the English Department's forthcoming production of Sir John Vanbrugh's comedy "The Relapse".

Readings will be held January 27 and 28 between 1 and 2 pm in Moyse Hall, and at 8 pm in the evenings in the Dramatic Production Workshop on McTavish Street.

"The Relapse", a Restoration comedy of manners, will be presented in Moyse Hall on March 10, 11, and 12.

"Virtue in Danger", as "The Relapse" is subtitled, recounts the adventures of an erring husband who falls from virtue into the arms of an unscrupulous young widow. The sub-plot concerns the tribulations of a country squire in his attempts to find a husband for his daughter.

"The Relapse" will be directed by Harry Ritchie, and the cast will be drawn from members of the student body, faculty, and staff of the University. Anyone associated with McGill is invited to try out for a role in the play.

For those unfamiliar with the text, Redpath Library has placed several extra copies on reserve.

In choosing this brisk and bawdy play for its second production of the season, the English Department hopes to provide an interesting contrast to the fall presentation of Fry's "The Lady's not for Burning" and to allow this year's audiences to compare comedy of wit with romantic comedy.

Intramural Highlights

by ED BIERBRIER

Competition in the four current sports, basketball, volleyball, floor and ice hockey, is continuing in full swing with participation at a high level, as the second term progresses.

ICE HOCKEY

During the past week there were four games run off. Architecture and the Shysters of Law both dropped 2-1 decisions to Medicine and Dents respectively. Gerry Freed counted the sole Shyster goal while Johnny Roberts and Chuck Casey scored for Dentistry.

Following a 2-1 defeat, the Shysters came back to set back the Arts and Science entry by two-one result.

COMMERCE VICTORY

Commerce whipped the Engineers as they posted a 5-0 shutout win. Dave Martin led the attack as he dented the twine three times for the hat trick, while Marty Nadell and Allan Axelrod pumped in singletons. Mike Taub, Bob Kirk, and Stan Kivenko picked an assist each during the game.

The standings up to date are listed below. The first four teams at the end of the schedule playoff.

FLOOR HOCKEY PLAYOFFS COMMENCE

Last week saw the floor hockey schedule come to a close and the playoffs begin tonight. In the contests played, two games were defaulted. Those were the Toddlers vs. Muckers and Architecture vs. Engineering. Muckers and Architecture were awarded victories.

GREENWOOD SCORES FOUR

Murray Greenwood single handedly led the Law crew to a 4-1 win over the Schizos as he put all four pucks in the opponents net. Turnbull saved the Schizos from a whitewashing as he scored the lone goal.

Kadawaki with two, and Casey with one goal enabled the D.T.'s to blank the Meds 3-0, while the Epars of Engineering turned back the Med 11 men 5-0. The Red Wings of Engineering ran roughshod over the Mountain Men of the same Faculty by coasting to a 7-1 victory. Kruzich chalked up the hat trick, followed by Tarasofsky with two, and Kadanoff and Masters who were credited with one each.

The final match saw the Omicrons, representing an entry from Engineering bow 5-1 to Commerce. Maczko and Moore tallied for Commerce.

HOOPSTERS TO DECLARE CHAMPIONS

The intramural basketball season has completed its schedule and are now in the finals of the playoffs where the Pluggers and Med 3 are fighting it out for the championship.

CHAMPIONSHIP ROUND

The Pluggers turned back Med 1-48-23 as Paul Harismowicz and Al Lackowicz swished the hoop for twelve and seventeen points respectively. Dick Dutton was high man for Medicine potting ten. The Pluggers then rode over the Highball Bouncers 49-27. Harismowicz and Lackowicz came through again with their effort of 18 and 16 points respectively. Previously the Highball Bouncers had entered the semi-finals by virtue of their 39-33 win over the Med 2b squad. This placed the Pluggers in the finals.

In other competition, the Shysters nipped the Amalgams 29-25. Ex-Redmen George Rosenberg was good for 14 followed by Steve Goldschleger with 5. Dick Reed contributed twelve for the losers. This win sent the Shysters against the Med 3 b'ballers who had previously subdued the Omicrons 32-19. Although Rosenberg chipped in eleven points, it was not enough to overcome the Meds who pulled out a 29-27 win, and now find themselves in the finals facing the Pluggers for the title.

Action On Two Athletic Fronts

GYMNASTICS

The McGill Intercollegiate Gymnastic Team plays host to a group of high school all-stars from Montreal in an invitational gymnastic meet at the Currie Gym tomorrow at 5 pm.

The high school all-star gymnasts present a strong preliminary challenge to the supremacy of the Red and White. Presently the McGill Team is training diligently for the forthcoming Intercollegiate Competition at Toronto on Saturday, February 13. McGill hopes to retain its title for the sixth consecutive year.

The McGill Team is composed of Gary Burggraf, Jim McIntosh, John Blackford, Bob Colby, Trevor Harn, Dave Hamilton and Eckhard Schwarz.

FENCING

Four hours of stiff competition last weekend saw the McGill Fencing team come out on top in a meet with C.M.R. The locals took 21 of 36 bouts. C.M.R. brought a strong team and as a result, the standard of fencing was correspondingly high. Both sides were hard pressed to get hits and to defend themselves. McGill established an early lead of 3 bouts and never looked back.

Despite a last minute attempt by the soldiers to force a draw, McGill held on and won the match.

Redmen, U. de M. Tonight

For the first time in 2 years, the McGill Redmen go into hockey game as easy favorites. The action takes place at the MWS tonight at 8 pm against the University of Montreal Carabins. The Redmen have been working hard this week after their 4-2 upset over the Blues in Toronto on Saturday. If McGill can pull out a victory, the team will be tied with the Blues for third place in the Intercollegiate League.

The team is playing very effectively as a unit at the present time, with the forward lines well balanced, the defensive unit improving with each outing and goaltender Alex Herron making it known that he is the only one for the all-star position this season. The U. de M. on the other hand, is the cellar-dweller, and has not been playing good hockey to date.

NOTES OF INTEREST

Because of a badly ankle, rearguard Jack Robson didn't play the last two games but he will be back in action against U. of M.

At Toronto games there is one referee and two linesmen, a system McGill could do well to incorporate.

One reason for the good crowds at Toronto hockey games is because the students are invited for public skating after the game.

Inters Win, But SGWU Topples Seniors 59-55

By FRED WISEMAN

Before a wildly enthusiastic crowd, consisting mainly of Georgian students, the senior Georgian team came up with an upset win over the Redmen, by the score of 59 to 55.

The win was unjustified in the light of the Redmen's tight defence and excellent passing.

The outstanding reason for the loss was the lack of the Redmen's bench depth — only nine men were dressed for the game!

The fact that Johnny Moore had four fouls called on him early in the first half kept him out of most of the action, but he showed his usual brilliant form in the crucial moments.

Gary Ulrich was "on - sight" with all his shots and accounted for 13 points. Limonchik was tops with 15, and Michowsky fielded 9. Richards played an outstanding game with his fine rebound work and free - throws.

The pace in the first half was very rapid, with the score-board in McGill's favor, 30 to 26. This situation was quickly reversed early in the second half when the Georgians put on the pressure-scoring twelve unanswered points.

The fast pace of the game was very well balanced by the calibre of the Georgian cheerleaderettes.

In the closing moments of the game, with Limonchik and Moore out on fouls, and the remaining few players visibly tired, the SGWU squad took the advantage and pushed their cause in the final minute to 56-55.

When Bishop missed his free shot, and the Georgians came up with one field goal and a free-shot, the final score was 59-55. High men for the Georgians were Watson (18), and Freitag (10).

With an unforgivable shortage of men, McGill threw away their fourth consecutive senior game, and left themselves temporarily in second place in the MBL standings — with SGWU holding the top spot.

The intermediate Redmen squad showed a co-ordinated team effort in their win over the SGWU squad by the score of 55 to 45.

The high men for the inters were Marty "Pocket-Pose" Wright with 17 points, Wilkie with 13 and Bohme with 10. The game was fought point-for-point throughout and places McGill in a first-place tie with Sir George in the intermediate league.
